

Anna Anita Mollo is a Research Fellow in Private Law at the Scuola Superiore Meridionale, with the research project Vulnerable Individuals, Technologies and Autonomy (VITA) to conduct a legal analysis of the elements of vulnerability and disability in technological scenarios from a perspective of ethical-legal compliance, focusing on the risks and benefits of technological evolution in these areas and the impact on fundamental rights .

She is Visiting Researcher at Center for Neuroscience and Society, University Of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, USA.

She obtained a PhD in “Humanities and Technologies. An integrated research path” at University Suor Orsola Benincasa, Naples.

She is the author of a monograph and several publications on Disability and Inheritance Law, personal data protection, neurotechnologies and AI. She edited two books "Note sulla disabilità" (2022) and "Sulla disabilità" (2024)

She is member of the editorial board of the journals “Famiglia. Sul diritto della famiglia in Europa”, “European Journal of Privacy Law and Technologies”, “Diritto di Internet” and she has been involved, as component member and teaching staff member, in several national and EU research projects.

She has won a prize in 2024 for the best book on the relationship between law and technologies (“Eredità digitale e piattaforme online. Tutela e profili di pianificazione”, Editoriale Scientifica) and two Awards in 2022 at EURA Young Scholar Prize (University Sant’Anna di Pisa) and dell’IEEE International Workshop Metrology for extended reality, artificial intelligence, and neural engineering (MetroXRAINE) with the support of Micron (Coniglio Nazionale delle Ricerche, Roma) with the paper “BCI device and Their Legal Compliance: A Prototype Tool for Its Evaluation and Measurement”.